five things
moms
should tell their daughters

ABOUT THEIR EGGS

1 you are born with
all the eggs you
will ever have.

We're not like the guys, who make new fresh sperm all the time.

The eggs you enter this world with on day one are all you get - so use them
wisely.

3

you have no idea where donated eggs will end up.

Since eggs aren't tracked in the U.S. (unlike just about anything else that leaves the human body, which gets barcoded, labeled, tracked and monitored and lives forever in some NAS spy secret zone) you really have no idea where your eggs will land.

4 there really is a biological clock.

And it's ticking.

So again, if you want to make babies, use your eggs wisely and on time. And don't fall for those egg freezing schemes.

5 as a result...

Helping someone else have a baby
with YOUR eggs...

...really means helping someone else
have YOUR baby.
